Senior Class History

In September, 1947, twenty bashful boys and girls filed into the right side of the J. T. H. S. assembly. They were: Bernita Adkins, Donna Arnold, Bob Arwood, Merna Ault, Jim Bacon, Jerry Bernard, Harold Cassidy, Lois Dunnuck, Kenneth Haines, Mary Kline, Marabel Kraning, Carolyn Krisher, Fred McGuire, David Miller, Donna Otiker, Betty Postill, Marjorie Snyder, Max Sullivan, Erma Swayer, and Cud Willis.

We survived the usual initiation, became adjusted to having no "recesses," learned to march from one classroom to another, and managed to adjust ourselves very well.

The boys soon found places for themselves on the softball, basketball, and track squads. Several of us joined the glee club and the newly organized high school band. We lost only one member of our class that year--Cud Willis.

During our Sophomore year, we lost Kenny Haines, but gained Don Runkle. We initiated the Freshmen, had an ice skating party at Miller's pond, and a theater party which ended up at the home of Merna Ault for recreation and refreshments.

The last party didn't have a happy ending, as four of the boys "piled-up" Don Runkle's car while crusing around the country side. It seems "Whiney" Arwood forgot to pull the emergency brake.

At the beginning of our Junior year, we found we were minus Carolyn Krisher, but we gained Don Heckathorn and Norma Shambarger. During the course of the year, Don Heckathorn and Bob Arwood quit school and Harold Cassidy moved to Akron.

It was in this year that we proved to be salesmen, actors and actresses, and entertainers. The salesmanship part came in at the home ball games. We sold refreshments so we could earn money for our Senior trip.

To prove our acting ability, we presented "The Little Shepherd Of Kingdom Come," the third week in March. This play was claimed by the "critics" as the best play ever presented at J. T. H. S. Of course, the "critics" were mostly our parents, who may have been prejudiced, but who are we to say it wasn't the best??????

For the final event of our Junior year, we escorted the Seniors to the beautiful Maxinkuckee Inn, on the shores of Lake Maxinkuckee at Culver, Indiana, for the Junior-Senior reception. To supplement our theme, "Cinderella," we were served a steak supper amid miniture Cinderella figurines, golden slipper nut cups, mice place cards, and memo books made in the silhouette of Miss Cinderella, herself.

After the banquet, we saw Walt Disney's movie production of "Cinderella."

We lost only one classmate during our Senior year--Fred McGuire, who preferred the companionship of Wilma Draper to ours.

The first event of our Senior year was a combination wiener roast Halloween party held at Norma Shambarger's home.

Next, came the traditional Halloween Carnival. We changed the J. T. H. S. gym floor to a Carnivalcade of bingo, basketball throw, dart throw, fish pond, baseball throw, and refreshment stands. The most exciting event of the evening came when Delores Donaldson, Freshman, was crowned Carnival Queen. Attendants were: Lois Jane Dunnuck, Senior; Doris Fouts, Junior; and Dana Rozell, Sophomore.

No sooner had we cleaned the gym floor of the carnival remains than it became time for our Senior play. We chose "Ma's New Husband." After two postponements, we finally presented the play on December 12 and 13.

Although this play was of an entirely different type than our Junior play, we feel sure that the audience enjoyed the extreme humor of it as much as they did the more dramatic incidents in our Junior play.

On December 19, we had a Christmas party at the home of Bernita Adkins. After stuffing ourselves with candy and nuts, singing carols, and exchanging gifts, we traveled to Miller's pond for an ice skating and wiener roast party.

For the final money-making project, we sponsored a fish supper, served by the Famous Akron Jonah Club, on March 9.

On May 2, the glorious day arrived. We were graduates! The speaker was Dr. Tennyson Guyer. For our class colors, we chose rose and silver; class flower, old rose; class motto: "Life Is Now Our School."

The following week we left for a six-day trip to Washington, D. C.---our last Senior event and the one week we had slaved for during those four school years.

Now, you ask, is this the end of our story? Why, of course, not! True, it is the end here at old J. T. H. S., but hardly the end of our history. Here's hoping we go out into this old world and each and everyone of us, as individuals, sets a more glorious record in the history of our world than we have here on the pages of our Senior Annual!!!

The Senior Class Will

We, the Senior Class of 1951, being of sound mind and body, do make and ordain this to be our last will and testament in connection with the Jefferson Township High School of Mexico, Indiana. We declare that all of the following articles are our most precious and desirable possessions:

We, the Senior Class, will all our seats on the south side of the assembly, which are looked forward to so very much by the oncoming class, to the Junior Class, who, we hope, will be able to fill them as well as we have in the past year.

We, the Senior Class, will our ability to act in both farce comedy and dramatic comedy plays to the Sophomore Class.

We, the Senior Class, will to the Freshman Class all our luck in advancing through high school (they'll need it).

We will and bequeath our abilities, properties and characteristics as follows:

To Mr. Miller, we will the right to give what fatherly advice he has left to the next Senior Class.

To Mr. Shambarger, we will the right to allow the next bookkeeping class to run down all stairs in order to be first in line for dinner.

To Mr. Gaiser, we will the boys of all incoming classes to be trained to play basketball.

To Mr. Powell, we will all the drawers in a filing cabinet in which he may hide erasers from the next Senior boys.

To Miss Curnutt, we will the ability to drive her big Nash as fast as she can without getting a ticket for speeding.

To Miss Fisher, we will the right to watch the person who occupies Bernita Adkins' seat in the front of the assembly.

To The Juniors:

I, Bernita Adkins, will and bequeath my height to Mary McCutcheon.

I, Donna Arnold, will and bequeath my extreme quietness to Mary Katherine Draper.

I, Merna Ault, will and bequeath my ability to skate to Maxine Kraning.

I, Jim Bacon, will and bequeath my liking of Freshman girls to Ronnie Krieg.

I, Jerry Bernard, will and bequeath my beautiful blond hair to Freda Miller.

I, Lois Jane Dunnuck, will and bequeath my ability to write long letters every day to Phyllis Butler.

I, Mary Kline, will and bequeath my short legs to Bob Romine.

I, Dave Miller, will and bequeath all chalk and erasers that have been thrown in the assembly to any Junior boy who is daring enough.

I, Donna Otiker, will and bequeath my ability of being a photographer to Nancy Kinney.

I, Betty Postill, will and bequeath my ability to drive Buicks to Jerry Williams.

I, Donald Runkle, will and bequeath my way with redheads to anyone who can stand them.

I, Norma Shambarger, will and bequeath my beautiful singing voice and ability to play the accordian to Bill Yoder.

I, Marjorie Snyder, will and bequeath my ability to speak rapidly to Norman Fisher.

I, Max Sullivan, will and bequeath my ability as rebounder on our basketball team to Harold Richardson.

I, Erma Swayer, will and bequeath my temper to Howard Richardson.

I, Marabell Kraning, will and bequeath my bashfulness around boys to Marcia Carpenter.

I, Bernita Adkins, will and bequeath my ability as a great clarinet player to Byron Swayer.

I, Jim Bacon, will and bequeath my large, bony, frame to Roy See.

I, Jerry Bernard, will and bequeath my singing ability to Don Cover.

I, Donna Otiker, will and bequeath my ability as secretary of the Senior Class to Carole Benedict.

I, Mary Kline, will and bequeath my good fortune in being the first in the Senior Class to receive a diamond ring to Doris Fouts.

I, Merna Ault, will and bequeath all my freckles to Claris Ann Guillaume.

Class Prophecy

One spring evening, as I was on the front lawn of my million dollar mansion near Denver, Indiana, romping with my children, a shiny, new four-door, red, Cadillac convertible, screeched to a halt in the driveway. Imagine my amazement when my old schoolmate and cousin-by-marriage, Marabel Kraning emerged. The date was ten years to the day since we had graduated from dear, old J. T. H. S., May 2, 1951.

"Jane Dunnuck," she greeted me, I've come to pay you a visit and rest a little. I've just driven through from Reno, and I'm completely exhausted. Wendell, my second husband, you know, simply won't come through with more alimony. How can I take in Paris properly on only $10,000 a week?

I motioned her to a chair on the veranda and we began confiding all our latest news to one another.

"I purchased the most beautiful new dress today," I told her, "At that new S and S store." Erma Swayer and Norma Shambarger are the proprietresses. "It's a very exclusive woman's shop."

This brought to Marabel's mind another old classmate. "Merna Ault has now reached the zenith of her ambition. She is a professional skater with her latest husband as co-star. I guess she and her first husband didn't get along too well--it seems he loathed skating."

The more we talked, the more we remembered of our former classmates. I told her of the latest Collier's cover girl, Bernita Adkins. The cover story said she is Powers Modeling Agency's star model for French bathing suits.

It was practically dark, so I called the children inside. Michael snapped on the television set. Across the waves came the announcer: "In this corner, we have Ezzard Charles. And in this corner, we have James Bacon, who is fighting for the championship tonight." Of course, we watched it--for Jim had been in our class, too. He became the new "World's Heavyweight Boxing Champion" in the 13th round with a T. K. O.

I told Marabel of my chat with Donna Arnold, whom I had met while touring the western states. Her love of horses had taken her to Texas, where she married a real-for-sure cowboy. While he's riding the range, she writes comic strips for the daily newspapers.

As we went on talking, I remembered what I'd recently heard about Max Sullivan. "He has a hog farm near Mexico. Each year he drives a new Chevrolet."

Then, Marabel thought of Donna Otiker, who was our class photographer. "Darling," she cooed, "Did you know Donna has her own studio in Hollywood? She is happily married, which is very unusual for Hollywood marriages."

Later on, when I asked who her lawyer was, she told me she had employed Marjorie Snyder. "She had done a very good job for me whenever I ask her to get my divorces, although it cost me $10,000 extra to pull her from her job as D. A. in Courter."

As the evening passed, I told her I had seen in the New York Times where Don Runkle was the president of the National Undertakers and Embalmers' Society. He replaced Digger O'Dell.

"I was reading the same paper," Marabel said, "There was a front page story about Jerry Bernard. He has joined Bob Hope on his tour of Army Camps."

"I saw him last month at a camp," I said. "The WAC's are just cra-a-zy over his beautiful blond hair, which he spends most of his time combing."

Marabel asked if I remembered Betty Postill. "Of course," I said. "She is the girl that fell in love with two fellows. Both of them had to go to the Army."

"Yes," she said, "Betty finally married both of them. Now they have her in jail for bigamy."

"And Mary Kline is very happy these days," I reported. "Remember, she was the first girl in our class to have a diamond. She was the first to be married, too. They have those six children they wanted, and are very contented."

"Say," asked Marabel, "what is that huge new building that is going up on new highway 31?"

"Oh," I answered, "why, that's the future home of International Farm Implements. Dave Miller has been Farmall dealer for several years. The new building is the result of his efficient salesmanship and good management."

We were so absorbed in our conversation, we hardly heard the doorbell ring. The butler came in to announce that a neighboring couple had dropped in for a few minutes. After the neighbors had left, Marabel was still tired from her long trip, so she decided to stay at our house for the night. We both went to bed to dream about the former classmates mentioned in our "class gossip" and the good "ole" days at J. T. H. S.

Humor

Merna: "Very dull party, isn't it?"
Donna A.: "Yes, very."
Merna: "Let's go home."
Donna A.: "Sorry, I can't. I'm the hostess."

Max: (After a ball game) "I'd have made more points if I hadn't missed so many shots."

Marj: "The man I marry must be easily pleased."
Don: "Don't worry, dear. That's the kind you'll get."

Betty: "Is it true that an alligator won't hurt you if you carry a torch?"
Jim: "I'd say it depended on how fast you carry it."

Mr. Miller: (In History class) "I cross my heart and hope to die on a stack of Bibles."

Bernita: "I'd like some typing paper, please."
Clerk: "Do you want a tablet or a ream?"
Bernita: "Neither, I want typing paper."

Erma: (Who was telling a story and knitting at the same time) "Oh, Miss Fisher, I got my yarns mixed."
Miss Fisher: "Which one?"

Jane: "Are you going to get married?"
Mary: "Yep, in the winter."
Jane: "Why wait till winter?"
Mary: "Cause he said it would be a darn cold day before he married me."

Dave: "I'd like to place a call to Damariscotta, please."
Donna O.: (PBX Operator) "How do you spell that, please?"
Dave: "Lady, if I could spell it, I'd write."

Norma: "Where do all bugs go in the winter?"
Jerry: "Search me!"
Norma: "No, thanks, I just wanted to know."

Miss Curnutt: "What did we learn from the 1st World War?"
Marabel: "Why--we use pistols to start our track meets."

Miss Fisher: "What kinds of dried fruits do we have?"
Marj: "I have dry dates sometimes."

Coach Howard Gaiser started the new school year with a team that had been hit by graduation and other causes. Even with a roster of inexperienced players, the team won three games and lost three encounters. The three teams that beat Mexico were experienced teams that had played in summer leagues. A new battery will have to be developed as the team loses Jim Bacon, pitcher, and Max Sullivan, catcher.

Band

We, the J. T. H. S. Band, would like to take this opportunity to "thank" the community for making it possible for us to purchase the new uniforms we are so proudly wearing this year.

The high light of the fourth band year came on November 18, 1950, when we journeyed to Indiana University to participate in the First Annual Indiana Band Day. Parents of the band members provided transportation. After a conducted tour of the campus, we joined the other 214 Indiana High School Bands at the University Stadium. We watched the famous "Marching Hundred" and the Indiana-Marquette Football Game. At the half and post-game periods, the entire group of bands (and twirlers) made two formations of I-N-D-I-A-N-N-A stretching across the entire football field. To date this was the largest group ever known in the world to have played together without rehearsal--5,600 strong.

The six Seniors who retire this year are: Merna Ault, alto saxophone; Marjorie Snyder, trombone; Bernita Adkins, clarinet; Donna Otiker, cymbals; David Miller, tuba; and, Jim Bacon, bass drum.

The 1950-1951 Band Officers were: President, Jim Bacon; Vice-President, Howard Richardson; Secretary-Treasurer, David Miller.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club, directed by Miss Marjorie Curnutt, was organized at the beginning of the school year with twenty-three members--all of whom are still in the group. Several girls are planning to join at the beginning of the second semester. Most of the singing has been along classical and semi-classical lines.

Library

The Dewey Decimal System has been further perfected this year, and much cleaning and organizing has taken place under the supervision of Miss Marjorie Curnutt, assisted by Sue Nell Harrison (who has since moved to Martinsville, Indiana), Delores Donaldson, Patsy Raber, Pat Arnold, Helen Eikenberry, and Byron Swayer. The library has a collection of fiction books and encyclopedias which is superior to the average school of its size.
